DANIELS FRIEND TO PORTSMOUTH

COLORED MAN HELD ON TWO SERIOUS CHARGES

Harry Hines, Paroled Convict, is Now Held for Double Murder and on Other Charge.

(Special to The Herald)
Cambridge, Mass., April 10.—Harry Hines, of this city who was released from Charlestown state prison on parole the day before last Thanksgiving in order that he might be home in time to eat Thanksgiving dinner with his two children, Arthur aged 4 years, and Barbara, aged 2 years, was brought into Cambridge city court house today on a stretcher in a critical condition from burns.

He was held without bail until April 20 on a double charge of murder, in setting the fire in which his two children were both burned to death, in their cribs last night.

A serious charge was sworn out against Hines, who is colored by a 16-year old Cambridge girl yesterday, and the police were looking for him. They believe he heard about it, and say he bought a bottle of naptha, splashed it around the bedrooms in the house and then set the place on fire.

FRENCH SAILING CRAFT SUNK BY GERMANS

(Special to The Herald)
Paris, April 10.—The French sailing vessel Chateaubriand, bound from London to New York with a cargo of chalk was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. The ship was attacked in the English Channel off Barfleur Thursday afternoon. The announcement was made today by the French Admiralty in an official statement.

The crew were given ten minutes to quit the ship. Three torpedoes were launched at the vessel and she sunk in three minutes taking her cargo with her to the bottom. All members of the crew were saved, arriving at Freeport today after being tossed about in small open boats in a rough sea for forty-eight hours.

The Chateaubriand was a vessel of 2300 tons burden and carried a crew of 24 men.

Secretary of Navy Makes Reply to the Boston Transcript in Answer to Serious Charges That He Was Attempting to Punish the Local Yard

(Special to The Herald)
"I showed my displeasure by selecting the Portsmouth navy yard for the building of the first submarine ever built in a government yard."

This statement was made by Secretary of the Navy Daniels in a letter to the editor of the Boston Transcript, made public today, denying the assertion that work had been taken from the Portsmouth yard as a punishment because of the defeat of the democratic ticket at the last state election. The charge was also made that the working force had also been greatly reduced, as a further mark of Mr. Daniels' displeasure.

There are six pages to Mr. Daniels' letter to the editor of the Transcript, and he states his case fully and clearly. One paragraph reads as follows:

"I showed my displeasure over the defeat of the Democrats in New Hampshire by selecting the navy yard at Portsmouth for this newest and biggest development of submarine naval construction, which is now in its infancy. As it grows, the importance of the navy yard in New Hampshire will steadily increase."

From figures on the records at this yard and at Washington in the navy department, Mr. Daniels states that instead of a decrease in the working force there has been an increase in the past two years of 54 per cent. On Feb. 1, 1913, the labor rolls at the local yard numbered 550 men. On Feb. 1, 1915, there were 845 workmen on the labor roll.

In answer to the charge that many ships were to be assigned to New Orleans and Pensacola that formerly had Boston and Portsmouth for their home yards, Mr. Daniels said:

"No ship has been or will be transferred to Pensacola and that station will be used exclusively for aviation. No ship has been transferred from Portsmouth to any navy yard, but the New Orleans yard has been opened for repair work on gunboats used in southern waters. A few such boats which have hitherto been sent to Portsmouth and other yards, will hereafter be repaired at New Orleans. Since the closing of the New Orleans yards, whenever one of these smaller craft needed any repairs, even the slightest, the ship had to be sent all the way to Portsmouth, N. H., or Boston, Mass., to be repaired, a distance of 1500 miles. It costs about $450 to $500 in coal alone to take a gunboat from Guantanamo to Portsmouth, not counting the seven or eight days lost from useful service in making the trip. It seemed to me that a private corporation, owning both these big plants at Portsmouth and New Orleans, would not be guilty of the waste involved in sending gunboats and small craft so far from the scene of their activities for repairs."

The entire letter of Mr. Daniels shows that he is sincere in his friendship to the Portsmouth yard and that he has worked hard for the betterment of the navy. This is his closing paragraph:

"The 63rd Congress, while making this big reduction in appropriations ashore, increased the appropriations for dreadnaughts, submarines and other fighting craft. It authorized five dreadnaughts as against two authorized by the 62nd Congress and 26 submarines as against 12 submarines. It appropriated a total of $37,145,635 toward the construction of new vessels as against $55,935,063.48 appropriated for this purpose by the 62nd Congress. Those figures tell their own story.

"Very truly yours,
"JOSEPHUS DANIELS."

THE ONLY CORSET DEMONSTRATED AT THE CHICAGO FASHION SHOW WAS "La CAMILLE"

THE FRONT LACE CORSET WITH THE "VENTILO" BACK.

The booth in which La Camille corsets were exhibited occupied a prominent position, and was thronged with visiting buyers and Chicago's fashionable women. Never before was such interest shown in a corset. The live model demonstrations attracted such crowds of eager women that standing room was at a premium.

Many spoke in appreciation of the "VENTILO" Back feature which prevents pressure on the Spinous Processes, and allows ventilation, and resolved that their next corsets would be La Camille.

We have a complete line of these wonderful corsets, and ladies are cordially invited to come and let our corsetieres fit them and explain their merits.

The model illustrated, 50CR, is made of fine strong coutil, intended for medium and full figures, bust fairly low, long skirt which imparts the straight line effect, and restrains superfluous flesh, has elastic section in bottom of back, tailor trimmed—Price, $5.00.

This model also made in various other materials at from $4.00 to $10.00, and can be furnished in either 11-inch, 12-inch or 13-inch front clasp. Other models from $3.50 to $5.00.

How Jess Willard, The Kansas Cowboy, Put Over The Crashing Right, Winning World's Heavyweight Championship

Havana, Cuba, April 10.—A big, burly farmer from Pottawatomie county, Kansas, is now the heavyweight champion of the world. Jack Johnson of Galveston, Texas, the master boxer, kisser and blitzer, dropped his crown to what he considered the softest thing of his career. The result was an awful shock to those "in the know," but championship battles in which titles change hands usually are. Assuming that everything was on the level in the fight, Jess Willard proved himself to be one of the toughest of the white hopes yet unearthed. The black champion used every trick he knew from the start. He kidded the lumbering Kansas, belted him with both hands, made him miss more than the ray amateur and belted him all up yet he was unable to shove one across that was good enough to drop the challenger of his title. Willard certainly fooled the wise birds. They said Johnson was too old. He didn't train. Johnson laid down. He could take the big fellow in three rounds if he wanted to. Willard was under-rated. Willard was too tough and too young. He, like Jeffries, never beat anyone until he beat a champ. Take your hats off to Willard. He fooled thousands. Drawing shows how Willard on right, put over the sleep punch on Johnson.

Howard C. Moody, 615 avenue.

It is expected that there will be a large attendance of young people at the Sunday evening service of the Second Christian church at which time the pastor, Rev. C. J. Yeomans, will deliver an address on the subject, "Love, Marriage and the Home."

Miss Adina Saborn of Rye is passing the week-end in town the guest of Miss Ruth Abrams of the Intervene. The S. V. Club was very pleasantly entertained on Friday evening by Mrs. Jimmy R. Currier at her home at the Intervene. Music was furnished during the evening by Miss Bernice Phillips. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

Chief Carpenter Frank M. Smith, U. S. N., who is confined to his home on Whipple road with pneumonia, is improving.

A social dance will be given in Grange hall on next Tuesday evening. Mrs. Lydia Moulton of North Kittery is improving from a fall sustained two weeks ago today.

Mrs. F. A. Noel, of Newson avenue, entertained the Jolly Twelve Whist club, at the home of Mrs. Victor Ames, on Friday evening. Gentlemen's night was observed and the husbands of the members were the invited guests. The ladies' first favor went to Mrs. Florence Lewis; the gentlemen's first to Mr. Victor Ames, and the trophy to Mr. Henry Blake. Refreshments of sandwiches and assorted cake were served by the hostess.

Mr. Charles Cobb is restricted to his home on Rogers road with an attack of the grippe.

Mrs. Arvilla Rundlett is passing the week-end with her son, Mr. Amos S. Rundlett, and family, of Portsmouth.

Mr. Daniel Mason is quite ill at his home on Dame street.

Mrs. Maud Moore, who resides with her brother-in-law, Mr. Eastman, of Wilson road, North Kittery, is suffering from a bad attack of indigestion.

Miss Lillian Moore is restricted to her home on Oak Bank by illness.

At the April session of probate court for York county in Biddeford recently, the following business pertaining to Kittery and Eliot was transacted: George D. Boulter of Kittery, was appointed guardian of Martha J. Hutchins of Kittery. In the estate of Pauline Emery, late of Eliot, the guardian presents an inventory of $9,219.11. Petitions to sell real estate were granted in the estates of Harrison J. Philbrick, late of Kittery; Clifford M. McIntire, late of Kittery; and Edson H. Jenkins (guardian), of Eliot.

Mrs. Burgess Abbott, of Wilson road, North Kittery, is improving from her recent illness and is able to be up about the house.

Why trade out of town when you can save time, car fares, expressman's charges, and buy good material at low prices at G. L. Trefelinks. I have on hand a full line of poultry wire, roofing, paints, varnishes, kyanite, garden tools, and general household goods. Telephone orders promptly filled.

The Eliot Country Club will hold their minstrel show Friday, April 23.

BOXING AT ARPACO CLUB

Three interesting bouts were pulled off at the Arpac Club rooms on Friday evening. In the first bout John Bailey and "Jack" Connors mixed it up for a draw. For this bout "Brute" Trauman referred and Russell Broomfield was timer. In the second bout Kid Ryan got a draw with K. O. Broomfield. "Amey" Hoy acted as Referee and J. Ryan as timer. For the third and main bout "Doc" Bailey and "Brute" Trauman presented a very fast bout in which Bailey was awarded the decision. Trauman wants a return bout. Hoy referee lost time keeper.

WILL REMAIN HERE

Rev. E. P. Moulton of the Pearl Street church is to remain with the united churches until May 1. He has had under consideration a position as state evangelist of the Vermont Baptist Convention, but has finally decided to accept the pastorate of the Free Baptist church in Farmington, this state, where he will remove about May 1. Mr. Moulton has done excellent work during his six years pastorate in this city, and made many friends, who wish him well in his new field.

THE CELEBRATED FRANKLIN CAR

Engine and Vehicle Patented July 2, 1908.

Weight 2750 Lbs., 4 1/2 in. tires—Price $2150.

In these days of standardization automobiles are known in classes—namely: Cheap, Common, Good, Fine, Splendid and Luxurious.

THE FRANKLIN IS DISTINCTIVELY THE FINE AUTOMOBILE

The Franklin today represents the most difficult of all engineering achievements—the attainment of scientific light weight, simplicity and easy-riding qualities, in a luxurious five-passenger touring car that costs less to maintain than the cheapest car made.

Automobile users everywhere have seen the U. S. Government's report showing the cost of operating a Franklin car in comparison with other makes. The Franklin DIRECT-AIR-COOLING SYSTEM does away with all useless complications—eliminates radiator leaks—frozen plumbing in the winter and the trouble and annoyance of boiling water in hot weather. In the recent engineers' test at the Mason Laboratory of Yale University, not only was the fuel mileage cost of the Franklin the lowest of any car tested, but under the strenuous conditions of the test, during the fastest runs and the heaviest pulling, the engine could not be overheated.

Get the facts from disinterested sources before buying a new automobile.

B. & M. BILL AT LAST
READY FOR LEGISLATURE

Concord N. H., April 9.—New Hampshire's Boston and Maine reorganization bill was sent to the printer this morning but it will not be formally presented to the House until next Monday evening when the Legislature will again convene. It is in many respects identical with the Massachusetts bill but has more provisions intended to protect the leased lines whose interests are paramount in this state. At this short session of the Legislature this morning Representative Lyford of the Judiciary Committee stated that the committee desired to have the bill put in print before it is formally presented. Whether it will go in with a committee report in favor is not decided as the committee has not voted on the bill. The committee stood 11 to 2 against the Boston and Maine bill Wednesday night but after laboring all day yesterday it was stated that the canvass showed 9 to 4 against the bill and after the measure was put in final form seven were against it and six in favor. While there has been no test of strength in the committee the prediction is made that it will receive a majority report or will go in without recommendation. The New Hampshire bill is the outcome of a long struggle in which the leased line representatives have carried practically every point for which they fought. As it goes to the House it received its finishing touches in the Judiciary Committee hearings after consultation with George P. Morris who represented the Concord and Montreal and Chairman John E. Benton of the Public Service Commission. One point for which Mr. Morris fought was the proviso in section 1 of the bill that the approval of two-thirds of the stockholders is necessary to consolidation. Other than stock owned or controlled by the Boston and Maine Railroad of the New York New Haven and Hartford Railroad with the proviso.

That said subsidiary companies or any of them may stipulate as a part of the contract that said Boston and Maine Railroad shall make provision satisfactory to the contracting parties for the payment and discharge of the floating debt as it may then exist amounting at the present time to approximately $18000000 as a condition precedent to any consolidation or readjustment of leases becoming effective.

Even had the leased lines been willing to waive this condition precedent it is stated that the committee would have had it put in the bill. It is not in the Massachusetts draft but it is here retained. The elimination of the capitalization of premiums was made as a concession by the Boston and Maine trustees who at one time regarded this as of great consequence as a factor in securing the underwriting of the consolidation plan. The new bill as completed last night is in substance as follows:

Section 1 retains the provision over which there was a controversy between the Boston and Maine and the leased lines that the latter might make as a condition precedent to the making of new contracts the payment of the Boston and Maine floating debt estimated roughly at $18000000. In section 2 the provision for the approval of the Public Service Commission of the issue of new stocks is modified so that they determine whether the act is complied with. Section 3 has been redrafted to meet the views of the New Hampshire Public Service Commission. It eliminates the capitalization of premiums. There was much controversy over this point some of the members of the committee taking the view of Professor Ripley of Harvard who addressed them upon this point that this might properly be done. The committee however adhered to the position of the majority that the capitalization of premiums would practically amount to an issue of $30000000 of new stock. In section 4 near the end the lines are cut out which allow the capitalization of the underwriting charges.

In section 5 the last four lines of the Commission bill have been altered. The Public Service Commission is to pass on the question of whether the contract is in the public interest. In section 7 the amortization clause is inserted after line 13.

Sections 8 and 9 of the bill are practically the same. The next section provides that there shall always be one director from each of the states of New Hampshire Maine and Massachusetts. Section 11 is unchanged and section 12 which provided for the submission of a plan to be approved by the Public Service Commission in the interest of the minority stockholders and the elimination of which was agreed to by all interests is left out. The changes in the next section are merely verbal. In section 14 which becomes the new section 13 the approval of the Public Service Commission is required to determine whether the securities are issued in accord with the terms of the act. The next three sections are practically unchanged.

The new section 15 provides that part of the expense of valuations etc. which may be put on by the Public Service Commission may be borne by the railroad. Section 21 incorporates the substance of the labor resolve passed by the House to the effect that there shall be no cutting down of employment in Boston and Maine repair shops in New Hampshire.

COLORED PEOPLE TO HAVE CHURCH OF THEIR OWN

The People's Baptist church have made arrangements to purchase the Pearl Street Baptist church with its furniture and equipment. This church has been made vacant by the consolidation of the Pearl Street Baptist church and this presented an opportunity for the colored people to have a church of their own. They have worshipped for many years at the South Ward room and from a small beginning have now a good sized congregation and a regular pastor.

It is understood that the purchasing price will be $1200 and already over half of it has been subscribed for. They will take possession as soon as the necessary papers are passed and the church is repainted.

A PROCLAMATION FOR FAST DAY
Conforming to the provisions of our statutes and continuing the custom of our fathers, I hereby proclaim Thursday, April 22, 1915, as Fast Day.

Present worldwide conditions should impress upon us all the propriety and the duty of observing the day in the spirit which originally inspired it; with confession of sins and shortcomings, individual and national, and with prayer for progress towards a clearer vision and better deeds.

Given at the Council Chamber in Concord, this tenth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-ninth.

ROLLAND H. SPAULDING, Governor.
By His Excellency the Governor with the advice of the Council Edward N. Pearson Secretary of State.
TO SET DATE FOR CHANGE IN CANAL ZONE
After conferring with Major General Wood commanding the Eastern Department of the army who is on his way to Washington from Cristobal Secretary Garrison will decide the time at which the Panama Canal forces will be organized into a separate department of the army. At present they comprise part of the Eastern Department. Under the proposed arrangement the commander of the Panama troops would report directly to the Secretary of War instead of through the commander of the Eastern Department.

N. H. COLLEGE NOTES
New Hampshire College Durham N. H., April 9.—It is proposed to erect here an Elizabethan theatre an exact reproduction of the kind of playhouse that Shakespeare, Marlow and the other dramatists of the period wrote for. A model is now being made in the college shops by James H. Phillips instructor in woodworking. It will be used by Prof. A. E. Richards in his courses in the history of the drama and Shakespeare.

So much interest has been shown in the model now under construction that it has been suggested that a theatre large enough to act in be built here and used for commencement productions. One of the large California universities has a Greek theatre but so far as is known the Elizabethan theatre has never been reproduced in the United States. The building here would be entirely of wood and all the work done by the college students themselves. What Elizabethan stage conditions were was well illustrated in New Hampshire a few years ago when the Ben Greet company visited several of the cities of the state and gave an Elizabethan staging for several Shakespearean and pre-Shakespearean plays.

The theatre proposed here will follow the model now being made and would be a composite of the Swan the Globe the Hope and the Swan. It would show the octagonal exterior the wedge shaped outer stage and the inner and upper stages rising rooms etc. The building would be an ideal place for the presentation of revivals of old plays and one proposition is to leave one wall unroofed so that spectators may see themselves on the grass of a hillside and view the spectacle out of doors.

The annual banquet of the New Hampshire College alumni association will be given April 10 at 6.30 o'clock at the Hotel Brunswick in Boston. Among those from Durham who will attend are President R. T. Fairchild and Prof. E. R. Groves both of whom are to speak; Prof. C. W. Scott Prof. C. E. Howitt and T. J. Laton.

This year the alumni association will have as its guest Governor Spaulding of this state. The toastmaster will be R. H. Watson of Nashua newly elected member of congress from this district a member of the class of 1895 and an alumni member of the board of trustees.

SAYS ENGINEER CALLED F-4 UNFIT
Mrs. Elsie Nelson widow of William S. Nelson engineer on the sunken submarine F-4 said yesterday at Los Angeles her husband told her he had notified the flotilla commander that the submarine's rigging which had suffered by a blowout would never be the same again. She said he also told her that the submarine had only four days' supply of air instead of a two weeks' supply provided by the regulations. Mrs. Nelson has just returned from Honolulu.

REAR ADMIRAL MOORE at Honolulu has enabled the Navy Department that the first of the two scow-pontons with which it is hoped to raise the sunken submarine F-4 probably would be ready on Monday and the second on Tuesday. The cruiser Maryland with the squad of naval divers to assist in the raising operations is due at Honolulu Sunday.

A Needless Misunderstanding.

Not infrequently there is complaint on the part of public speakers, particularly in political and official fields, that they have been misquoted by the press. They aver that newspapers attribute to them statements they never made and the matter ends in a fog of contradiction, most readers believing that which affords them the most satisfaction to believe. That statements occasionally strike the public differently from what was anticipated is true, and there is a common suspicion that speakers who have been guilty of indiscretion in their utterances sometimes seek shelter under the claim that they were incorrectly reported.

In reporting an address there is a chance for mistakes, though most of the men engaged in this work exercise all care to make their reports correct, and they usually succeed to an extent that satisfies the speaker and the public. Criticism usually arises in connection with especially important statements and, as before stated, the matter ends in a tiresome contradiction, with few knowing just where the truth lies.

But while it is easy to understand how these things can happen, there is no legitimate excuse for a mix-up in connection with an interview, such as has come up between the president of the United States and a member of the staff of one of the leading papers of Paris. This man was introduced to the president a few days ago by the French ambassador and had a pleasant talk with him, and immediately thereafter there appeared in the French paper a dispatch which was objectionable to the president, who says he was not aware that he was being interviewed and that he considered it distinctly understood that the visit was not in the nature of an interview. On the other hand, the journalist says the president knew he was to send a dispatch to his paper containing the results of the interview, that he offered to submit it to the president before cabling, but that Mr. Wilson assured him that he was willing to rely upon his judgment.

Few can believe that either President Wilson or the representative of this great newspaper is lying. The trouble is that on one side or the other there was a misunderstanding of the nature of the journalist's visit to the president, and therein lies the lesson taught by this unpleasant experience. There should be no trouble in knowing when an interview is an interview, and this should always be clearly understood by both sides. No honorable newspaperman will procure an interview in an underhanded way, and persons with whom interviews are sought should know positively whether they are to be quoted or not.

Wizard Edison is turning out dyes which heretofore have been considered impossible except when "made in Germany." He says the United States should be able to make all the dyes it wants and as good as it wants, but that protection will be needed to make their manufacture here a success. It is quite possible that the war will result in some important changes on the industrial and commercial map.

There is to be a flying race from coast to coast, starting July 4. It is expected to last about 90 days and suitable prizes will be offered. It will be a mammoth sporting event, though conducted with the avowed purpose of demonstrating the practicability of the flying machine for carrying mails and serving the army and navy. The fatalities will be duly recorded.

The department of agriculture estimates the yield of winter wheat in the United States this year at 619,000,000 bushels. There is the largest acreage in the country's history, and the conditions up to this time have been favorable. This country may have some things to worry about, but a bread famine is not one of them.

Governor Gates of Vermont finds that the city of Springfield, Mass., having a population of about 100,000, spends more for governmental purposes every year than the whole state of Vermont. Whether he considers this a credit to Springfield or a reflection on the Green Mountain state he does not say.

The ovations to Jess Willard, the prize fighter, are as spontaneous and hearty as those accorded to Harry K. Thaw whenever he appears in public. It makes little odds to the shouters how one became conspicuous, so long as he is sufficiently conspicuous.

The weather man makes a good average, taking the year as a whole, but of late his fallibility has been frequently and emphatically demonstrated.

Now that Mr. Bryan is out flatfooted for prohibition, will those democrats who fail to subscribe to the program be regarded as "reactionary"?

Keene Man and Woman Held for Death of Woman's Husband.

Keene, N. H., April 9.—Felix Buchlowski and Mrs. Dominice Salawski have been indicted on charges of murdering Frank Salawski, the woman's husband.

It is alleged that in December of last year, Mrs. Salawski and Buchlowski poisoned Salawski and he died January 1. Buchlowski was arrested a few days after the death of Salawski and has been at the local jail since. Mrs. Salawski was arrested last night.

"THE FAIRY AND THE WAIF"

Big Frohman Photo Play at Portsmouth Theatre Monday and Tuesday Afternoons.

The story of this Gustave Frohman production is sure to appeal to every person in the audience. The principal actors, Mary Mills Miller, (known the country over as "The Littlest Rebel") Percy Helton, (the boy of "Peter Rima" fame), and Will Archie (whom everyone knows,) will delight the children with their pathos and humor, while the grown-ups will be gripped by the splendid acting and interest of the plot based upon events brought about by the sudden outbreak of the present European war, which in brief is as follows:

Major Drayton of the British Army receives a cablegram which necessitates his return to London. As he will be gone for a few weeks, his lawyer suggests that he leave Viola in his care.

Viola is not happy in lawyer Nevelson's household, and is therefore dismayed when at the outbreak of the war abroad, her father writes that he has been ordered to the front. The news of Major Drayton's death causes the Nevelsons' attitude to change. A sum of money entrusted to Nevelson for Viola's care has been lost by him in speculation and Viola is looked upon as a burden and treated harshly, becoming the household drudge.

Goaded beyond endurance, she turns away drifts into a theatre, and becomes a fairy in a Christmas production. At the dress rehearsal she falls from a cloud which was bearing her skyward. She is not injured but is berated by the stage manager, that she rushes out into the night in her fairy costume, and disappears. This is how it comes to pass that the waif, a wretched little urchin whose only shelter is an old barrel in a lonely alley, is sure that the "Christmas Angel" has come down to him when he is aroused from his Christmas eve sleep by Viola dashing headlong into his barrel, seeking to hide from a pursuing dog.

Despite the gathering clouds, the threads of the story are woven together into a happy ending.

This big feature will be shown at the afternoon performances only on Monday and Tuesday, "The Fairy and the Waif."

Habeas Corpus Proceedings in Horn Case Will Have Right of Way.

At a hearing in the United States district court yesterday on a motion of counsel for Werner Horn, the German army lieutenant, who it is alleged attempted to blow up with dynamite the international bridge over the St. Croix river, Judge Morton decided to allow the habeas corpus case to proceed before Werner is called upon to plead to the indictments charging violation of the law regulating the carrying of explosives on a common carrier.

United States District Attorney Anderson will file a demurrer to the petition for habeas corpus today and a hearing will be held on Monday afternoon by Judge Morton in Boston.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR EVERYBODY

The N. K. Fairbank Company Shows Faith in Newspaper Advertising.

THE GOLD DUST TWINS.

The Gold Dust Twins, those nimble sprites that have won their way into the hearts of so many housewives, in addition to their usual occupation of making this a cleaner and brighter world, have started with fine spirit upon the work of spreading confidence in the stability of American institutions.

Not satisfied with brightening material things, the Twins propose to make the future bright.

This new enterprise on the part of the celebrated Twins takes the form of an extensive newspaper advertising campaign by the N. K. Fairbank Company, of Chicago. Gold Dust is manufactured by this company, which has just completed arrangements for extensive advertising in the newspapers in practically every city and town in this country.

Every Gold Dust advertisement will be enlightening. It will explain the superior merits of Gold Dust as a washing and cleansing powder; it will tell the people how the Gold Dust Twins do their work—how, in addition to cleaning and brightening everything from kitchen floors to the finest woodwork and from the ordinary cooking utensil to the choicest silver, glass or enameled ware, they purify and make things sanitary in the kitchen, in the bathroom—everywhere throughout the house.

In a large and broad sense, it may be regarded as this big manufacturing company's faith in American institutions. No better evidence of the value of newspaper advertising has ever been presented than is to be found in this extraordinary campaign in the interest of Gold Dust washing powder.

The Gold Dust Twins are going to do their part in abolishing the gloom in which too many people have recently been sitting. They are going to brighten everything, the outlook included.

This is a splendid time for people who have never met the Gold Dust Twins to make their acquaintance. They are certainly worth knowing.

CURRENT OPINION

WAR MAY REDUCE THE VOLUME OF IMMIGRATION.

I am not sure whether, after the war, the volume of immigration will be greater than that of the six banner years since 1900. Since 1820, when this country began to make immigration records, there have been just six years when the number of immigrants passing through our ports exceeded one million.

I estimated that the ships last year could have accommodated thirty-three per cent more immigrants than were admitted to this country. I do not know that even with a quickened flow of people to our ports, however, at the end of the war that immigration will reach the maximum. The resumption of commerce and agriculture in Europe may mean an increased demand for laborers, which will keep a great number of people at home who otherwise might come to America in case of foreign depression.—By Anthony Cammelli, Commissioner General of Immigration.

ered with snow. High drifts were found on some of the roads where the wind had a chance to sweep, and several shovellers were kept at work three-quarters of the day on the side road along Great Bay. A few persons remember a similar snow storm which occurred 39 years ago the first of April, but it is not often that roads have to be cleared of snow drifts in April.

As Mrs. John W. O'Brien of Tremont street, Exeter, was at work about the range Friday noon her clothing in some way caught fire. Mrs. O'Brien was so badly burned, that she was taken to the hospital for treatment. The burns are not considered serious and she has returned to her home.

The fire spread to the woodwork about the kitchen but was quickly extinguished.

RECEIVES GERMANY'S REPLY

Washington April 9.—Secretary Bryan had before him today the reply of the German government to the recent American note regarding the destruction of the American ship William P. Frye together with her cargo of wheat by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich in which Germany announced her intention of compensating the owners of the Frye. The United States government had claimed indemnity of $228,053.54.

In the reply transmitted by Ambassador Gerard at Berlin the German government declares that the sinking of the Frye was justified under international law and assumes liability for the ship and cargo as well under the treaties of 1793 and 1823. Germany declares however that the case will have to be taken before a prize court to establish facts regarding ownership of ship and cargo.

Germany's contention is that the Frye's cargo of wheat was contraband because it was consigned "for order" to Queenstown declared to be a British fortified port.

GERMAN NOTE NOT TAKEN IN GOOD SPIRIT

Government Officials Resent Germany's Criticism of the United States.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, April 10.—State department officials today were concerned over the renewal by the German Foreign office of the issue regarding the shipment of food stuffs to the civil population of Germany. President Wilson today had the German note before him for consideration but no information has been given out as yet as to what reply will be made. It is indicated, however, that the latest note from Germany, is in effect a criticism of the attitude of the United States to England in regard to the British orders in council and that it might be considered a breach of diplomatic etiquette and may serve to further strain the relations between the two governments. There was indicated among the officials a feeling of resentment against the criticism by a third nation of the policy (the administration has advanced towards England.

"COLONIAL" IN STYLE AS WELL AS IN NAME

New Show House Completed and Fitted With Every Modern Convenience for the Comfort of Patrons.

The Colonial Theatre, built for Gray and McDonough, was designed by Ashton and Huntress of Lawrence, Mass., and will not only be a decided addition to the city as a public building, but it has been pronounced by experts to be one of the most modern theatres in New England.

The main entrance is on Congress street leading through a wide vestibule and foyer to the theatre proper, which runs through to Porter street. The front is in colonial style and design and is in keeping with the architecture of the city. It is faced with brown tapestry brick and has four large fluted columns carrying an entablature and pediment. From this pediment rises a flagstaff to a height of thirty feet. From the main entrance a marquee extends out over the sidewalk. This is of tonkin metal with a fluted-glass top and the whole outlined in electric lights. Over the marquee there is a colonial sign finished in verde antique. Suspended from the building and overhanging the sidewalk is an electric flash sign with the word "Colonial." Over the sign is an arch of electric lights and on each side is suspended two large nitrogen lamps.

The entrance is through a large open vestibule with brass display signs at either end into the lobby in which is located the two ticket offices. This lobby is faced with pavonazzo marble dado resting on verde antique marble base and ceramic tile floor which gives the whole a very pleasing appearance. From the lobby the foyer is reached through five large plate glass panel doors. This foyer leads directly into the theatre. The floor is of harlequin in buff color with black border and base. The side walls have the colonial panel, simply but effectively decorated in gold and colonial blue, which are the prevailing colors of the decorating scheme of the entire house. There is a large coat room here.

From the foyer, access is gained directly to the orchestra and mezzanine floors and to the balcony by two separate stairways. The theatre has a seating capacity of 1400 on the main floor and in the balcony. There are six loges or boxes on each side of the auditorium near the stage on both the orchestra and balcony floor level. Each of these contains three seats. They are set off with rich velvet draperies of colonial blue. The seats on the floor are of the latest, most modern and sanitary type; large and roomy, upholstered in dark green leather. There is not a single seat in the house that has not an unobstructed view of the entire stage. The theatre has six exits from each floor, leading onto Congress, Porter and Church streets and they are so arranged that patrons may leave the building without interfering with those coming into the main entrance.

The stage is fitted with every modern convenience known to stagecraft for handling motion pictures, vaudeville and all musical and dramatic productions. All scenery as well as the curtains are equipped with the counterweight system for fast handling and quick changes. The main switchboard for the entire house is located to the left of the stage and is equipped with all the latest devices for up-to-date stage lighting effects. Every precaution has been taken for fire protection. There is an asbestos curtain and with this down, everything on the stage could be destroyed by fire, and no flames or smoke could reach the main house. This same precaution has been carried out in the construction of the entire building with fire walls and fire proofing material used everywhere.

Under the stage is a well lighted and ventilated basement and the dressing rooms, eight in number; and above the stage, on the Porter street side are two large dressing rooms for the use of a chorus.

The mezzanine is reached directly from the foyer and contains the manager's office, ladies' and gentlemen's retiring rooms, usher's room and a general utility room. From this floor the balcony is reached by two wide, separate stairways landing the patrons very near the center so that all seats are reached by easy and short flights of stairs.

The entire building is finished throughout in the best possible manner in mahogany. The decorations are simple but effective. The walls and ceilings are finished in oil paint of a soft grey-brown tone with decorative panels and mouldings finished in blue and gold. Heavy brass railings surmount the boxes, balcony front and orchestra pit.

The lighting system has a three-way control; from the main board on the stage, the picture booth and the ticket office. All lights are so arranged that they may be dimmed.

The picture booth, contrary to the usual custom is built and finished into the auditorium under the balcony. It is absolutely fireproof and ventilated directly into the street.

The lighting fixtures are all of the inverted type, with large circular rings of bronze suspended by three chains holding amber glass bowls.

The heating and ventilating system is one of the best in any theatre in New England. Briefly the plans is as follows: Two thirty horse power boilers, twin-connected so that one or both may be used, and steam is driven to the direct radiators which are recessed into the walls. The heating system is equipped with three controls. One for the lobby and office end of the building; one for the auditorium and stage, and the third for the primary heater. This particular feature consists of vento radiation in the primary chamber in the basement containing about 1800 square feet of direct radiation. The air supply leading to this is brought into the building at a point about twelve feet above the street level. The cold fresh air then drops down into the chamber, passes through the primary heater, is picked up by a five horsepower motor driven fan which discharges the air through the two large ducts, one to each side of the auditorium, and it is circulated by the use of deflectors. This is capable of handling 23,000 cubic feet of air per minute, thereby changing the air every seven minutes. The ventilation outlets which are provided for the auditorium and balcony are carried in ducts into a receiving chamber over the mezzanine floor and is exhausted out into the street by a motor driven fan.

Provision is made in the primary chamber so that there may be an introduction of a cooling apparatus, which during the warm season will enable the temperature of the auditorium to be reduced from ten to thirty degrees below that of the outer air.

The general contractors for the Colonial Theatre were C. M. Rand of Portsmouth and D. L. Rand of Boston.

Heating and ventilating, Edward O. Burrows of Boston.

Electric wiring and equipment, Thomas M. Murphy of Boston.

Painting and decorating, Fred A. Gray of Portsmouth.

Draperies, M. C. Foye, Portsmouth.

Finishing hardware, A. P. Wendell and Co., Portsmouth.

Furniture and carpets, Margeson Brothers, Portsmouth.

Shades, George B. French and Co., Portsmouth.

Uniforms, Henry Peyser and Sons, Portsmouth.

Plumbing, Wm. F. Washburn, Portsmouth.

Pianos, J. M. Hassett, Portsmouth.

The Colonial Theatre will be opened on Thursday evening, April 15th. A special program of vaudeville and pictures will be presented and the same care and attention as to the quality of the entertainment given in the Colonial, will be as in all other Gray and McDonough houses.

The prices for the Colonial for vaudeville and pictures, afternoons will be 10 cents and 5 cents for children. Evenings, 10 and 20 cents. Only a small section of the house will be reserved at 20 cents. These seats will have coupon tickets, thereby enabling patrons to secure tickets for a performance, one week in advance.

The reserved seat tickets for the opening performance will go on sale at the Seaside Temple, High street, Monday morning at ten o'clock.

The present Seaside Temple orchestra will be enlarged and taken to the Colonial, with Howard S. Kneeland, director.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Bridget Clair

Mrs. Bridget Clair, widow of the late James Clair passed away in Lynn on Friday, aged 78 years. Death was the result of a severe case of grippe. Mrs. Clair passed the most of her life in Portsmouth where she enjoyed the friendship of many residents. Deceased was a most genial and kindly woman and her death causes much sorrow among her acquaintances here. She is survived by four daughters, Miss Mary B. Clair, Miss Harriet A. Clair, Mrs. Jennie Quinlan of Lynn, Mrs. John Molebouden of Somerville; one son, Francis P. Clair of Portsmouth. The remains will be brought to this city on Sunday and the funeral held from the home of her son, No. 235 Gate street on Monday morning, with services at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

William H. Keepers

Died April 10 at his home on Cable road, Rye, William H. Keepers, aged 70 years, 6 months. He is survived by a wife and one son. Funeral services will be held from his late home on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

CIVIC ASSOCIATION.

The fourth neighborhood meeting of the Portsmouth Civic Association will be held at the Farragut school Monday evening, April 12th, at 8 o'clock. The program will consist of music, a talk on Home Gardens by Mr. Oscar E. Hise, and a report of "The Work Accomplished by the Parent-Teachers' Association" in this district. It is hoped that not only the members of the association, but any interested in the betterment of conditions in our city will be present.

A large audience will probably attend the last meeting of the Portsmouth Forum at Freeman's Hall, Sunday afternoon, to hear Mr. Tryon's account of his personal experiences in Germany during the mobilization of that country's wonderful army last summer. Admission free.

Will Lecture On His Personal Experiences in Germany and the Peace Question

PATH OPEN TO RUSSIANS INTO HUNGARY

Emperor Francis Joseph Has Appealed to Pope For Assistance--French In a Big Drive At St. Mihiel--German Trenches Choked With Dead

Petrograd, via London, April 9.—With the Russian forces in possession of all the main summits and slopes of the Beskid mountains, army officers here assert that the Austrians' operations in the Carpathians have collapsed. The Russian general staff is now considering the best approach into Hungary.

Says Josef Appealed to Pope
On the subject of a separate peace for Austria-Hungary the Bourse-Gazette says:

"In the dual monarchy, the rules have changed. At the outset the Hungarians were for war and for solidarity with Germany. Since the fall of Poincaré they have been talking loudly of a separate peace."

"The Austrian party, on the contrary, insists in the war being continued, since they realize Austria, in any event, will have to pay the price. Emperor Francis Joseph has appealed to the Pope for aid in securing peace. When this is discovered by the Austrian party a demand will be made that a second note be sent annulling the first."

"Austrian politicians showed Emperor Francis Joseph that the Hungarian desire for peace was brought about by Germany's failure to afford protection to Hungary. Seeing disaster approaching, the agitators desire to secure safety by strengthening Hungary in the dual monarchy."

Austro-Germans in Retreat; French Drive at St. Mihiel

London, April 9.—On two great battlefields 700 miles apart the allies are co-operating in a mighty attempt to crush Prince Joseph's army and force Austria-Hungary to sue for peace.

Official and unofficial dispatches received here today indicated that the allies are moving slowly to success. The Russians are pressing forward into Hungary, with the Austro-Germans in retreat at nearly every point. The fierce drives of the French around St. Mihiel have caused the Germans to hurry re-enforcements originally designed to stem the Russian onslaughts in the Carpathians. Various reports indicate that Hungary is in a state of terror over the Slav invasion and demanding that the dual monarchy ask a separate peace.

A Bucharest dispatch today estimated that Austro-Hungarian losses in killed, wounded and prisoners in the defence of Hungary from invasion totalled more than 300,000. At least 200,000 of these were prisoners, according to the Bucharest estimate.

The Berlin claim that France's sudden offensive around St. Mihiel was directly linked with the Russian advance upon the Carpathian passes is generally accepted here. Though aiming to smash the St. Mihiel wedge, the savage attacks of the French armies south of Verdun are believed to form part of a great plan of campaign worked out at Petrograd, Paris and London. Gen. Joffre is keeping the Kaiser too busy to send more aid to the retreating Austrians.

The same strategy according to the French, saved Warsaw from Von Hindenburg after the Russian defeat in the Masurian lakes. While the Slavs were falling back out of East Prussia in a disordered retreat their French allies began swift smashes against the German trenches in the Champagne. Von Hindenburg cried for re-enforcements for a grand assault on Warsaw. The German general staff had none to send. Every man available was plugging the German line around Berthel.

Find German Trenches Choked with Corpses
Paris, via London, April 9.—The of-icial communication from the war office this afternoon says:

"British troops repelled during the night of April 7-8 a German attack. Between the Meuse and the Moselle fresh progress was made. At Les Eparges we gained new ground and have remodelled trenches captured from the Germans, which were choked with bodies, so as to make the parapets face the other way."

"In the wood at Almy, we captured new trenches and repelled two counter attacks as already reported. We also secured six machine guns and two trench mortars. The enemy ceased his counter attacks after midday."

Furnes, Belgium, via Paris, April 9.—A dramatic duel in the air, in which a German air craft was brought down inside the allies' lines by Roland G. Garros, a famous French aviator, was described last night by Major Raoul minister of war, who witnessed the combat.

The German as first succeeded in rising above Garros' machine but the latter, by a clever twist, escaped and the new atop the German.

"From this moment the German's position became critical," said Major Pontus, for Garros overtook him rapidly. Presently, the crackling of a quick firer showed the Frenchman judged himself sufficiently near to take the offensive. Could the German escape? It seemed difficult, for Garros shot forward in great bounds, getting nearer and nearer; but the German observer used his carbine freely, and it seemed that a bullet might strike the Frenchman.

"Suddenly a long jet of white smoke gushed from the German machine and then a little flame which in an instant enveloped the whole aeroplane. Notwithstanding the extreme peril the pilot too to flight, but his efforts to escape were soon converted into a horrifying downward plunge. The aeroplane a mass of flames, struck the ground a score of yards from me, and a column of black smoke mingled with sheets of fire poured from the fallen machine."

"I ran to the aeroplane, which had fallen close to a ditch, and soon put the fire out. The aviator, horribly burned, was dead when I reached him. The gasoline tank contained two bullet holes. The machine was marked No. 2, 4th flotilla. Its six-cylinder engine was very heavy, and this explained its rapid fall. The fire had spared instruments and military documents in thick leather cases. This interesting booty was taken to general headquarters."

London, April 9.—Charged with sending military information to Germany by means of invisible ink, three men have been arrested and will be tried in a civil court. The authorities intimate that the case is one of the gravest importance. One of the suspects named Kueperle, professes to be an American. Another, Muller, claims he is a naturalized Englishman, while the third, who gives the name of Hahn does not deny that he is a German subject. Kueperle came here from the United States, first visited Dublin, and then coming to London, where he is said to have been awaiting passage across the channel.

STUDY ONLY ONE FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Midshipmen at the Naval Academy will have to study but one foreign language in the future as the result of the approval by Secretary Daniels of a recommendation by the superintendent of the academy changing the course of modern languages. The change was brought about by the failure of the midshipmen to master two foreign languages in the time that is available for their study. Half of the midshipmen will study French and the remainder Spanish.

ARREST MADE IN DEATH CASE

W. H. Truesdale of Manchester Held as Witness in Connection With Fatal Assault.

William H. Truesdale of Manchester a shoemaker, 42 years old, was arrested as a witness in connection with the fatal assault on Joseph Dolphs Bellaire of 234 Wilson street on Monday night.

The police are seeking another man in the case, probably as a witness and have a large force at work in an attempt to establish the identity of Bellaire's assailants.

DAILY CABLE LETTER

Pollackstone, Eng., April 9.—Fifty-five Canadians wounded in France, are now being nursed back to health within two miles of Folkestone. Their nursing home is officially called the Canadian Military Hospital. In non-war days it is Beachborough Park, Shorncliffe, the home of Lady Malcolm—a typical, solid-faced, white-turreted, English mansion, tucked cozily under the lee side of the cliffs that fringe the English Channel.

Every available room in the house has been converted into a ward. Old masterpieces of Dutch and British painters hang on the walls and broad staircases; the luxurious hall with its old-fashioned fireplace, has become a sort of rest room for nurses who snatch a few minutes off duty; a tennis court is being laid out in front of the house for the use of patients in the coming months; on the huge lawn to the left is to be erected an extension of the hospital. And on the first floor an apartment has been turned into an operating room.

Under the glare of the X-rays practically every man has been probed for German bullets and shrapnel which had not been removed at the base hospitals in France. Major Jackson died here though his name has not yet figured in the casualty list. Jackson died, not from wounds, but from appendicitis, which he contracted in the trenches.

Practically every Canadian regiment is represented in the hospital—the Princess Patricia, Winnipeg Rifles, Engineers, Sappers, all who came with the first contingent—and some of them will be months on the sick list yet.

Corporal Charles Smith, of the 90th Winnipeg, owes a shattered arm to a German sniper who "winged" him at severely five yards range two days before the advance was made along the Armentieres road. Smith was in the reserve trenches which lay opposite a wood between Armentieres and Ypres, in which the Germans had entrenched. They were well screened by brushwood and trees. Coming out of his dugout the corporal was making inquiries about his platoon's dinner when plunk came a smack on the left arm that sent him staggering.

They ripped his sleeve off and found a hole several inches long. As it was being bound up Smith collapsed, but the stretcher party had not carried him off when crack went a rifle twenty yards off, and Smith opened his eyes to see the helmeted figure of the sniper pelted from the tree. "Good boys," murmured Smith. He woke up in hospital.

Two days later Sir John French asked the Canadians to clear the wood. The Princess Patricia's were there, and the whole line trembled with eagerness for the order to charge. "Go," said one Canadian who now nurses a wounded leg. "It was some charge. The maple leaf was there you bet your left!" They swept the wood clear, came out at the other side and had to be called back before they realized that the Germans who weren't fighting were lying in heaps, and that those that weren't lying down were surrendering in batches. Sir John French complimented them for that.

But the crowning exploit was the attack on Neuve Chapelle. La Bassee the German Gibraltar is but four miles from Neuve Chapelle, and La Bassee has been the bete noir of the Allies for months.

"The fight for La Bassee," explained one of the officers in hospital, "will be the bloodiest work of the campaign. It will be red hell in that town one night. We can't shell it, for there are still about 5000 non-combatants huddled there. It must be taken with the bayonet and it must be taken before long. The Canadians are working with the English Tommies on that section, and we are content to push the Germans back a hundred, even fifty yards at a time."

"Then one night we will be near enough for the rush. It will be cruel work. All bayonet. That is the meaning of the recent attack on Neuve Chapelle. It lies at the junction of the roads from La Bassee to Estaires and Arras. French wants to get La Bassee as easy as possible. That's why he gave the Germans such terrible shelling at Neuve Chapelle. He wanted to demoralize them. I guess he did it. It may help to loosen their hold on La Bassee."

The Army Headquarters have found that the Canadians in the field work as well with the British regiments that it has been decided to include drafts of Dominion men among the home battalions at important points in the fighting line,—and the Neuve Chapelle battle has borne out the wisdom of this arrangement.

A few of those who helped in the attack have arrived at Beachborough Park. They say it was the most exhilarating hour they ever spent. The devastating effect of the accurate shell fire which preceded the attack had struck terror into the Germans left in the trenches. In some places there were no German trenches. It was just a frightful mixture of dead, dying and wounded, most of whom were half buried by the fallen earth. Helmets, forage caps, guns, boots, cartridge belts, overcoats, ammunition lay scattered over the ground, discarded in the flight, as the Canadians swept over the fallen many raised themselves from the ground and called their willingness to surrender. It was the first real battlefield of the old type that has been seen for many months in France.

And late that night, after the Bois du Diez had been taken by bayonet to the shouts of "Canada for Ever," an impromptu concert—in which the wounded joined with exaltation.

"O NATIONS OF THE WORLD"

By Henry Frank.
(Author of "The Story of America Sketched in Sonnets.")

O Nations of the world what woe is this,
Upheaved from gulfs of Hell, that vomit fires
On defenceless towns and hurl with vaunting hiss,
Allice on childhood and on gray-haired sires.
The engines of death and iron hail,
That crush within a day the fruits of toil,
Ten centuries brought forth—now
Ashen pale,
Blood-soaked and reeking on the smouldering soil!

In this the acme of Civilian's pride;
The Jaeh over Savagery; the end
Of knowledge and sanity of science
That crown
The earth and mark the march of so-called
Is this the promised triumph that should stride
The globe with human glory and re-nova?

Silenced now the joyous notes that sung,
In distant ages of man's golden dreams
Of his far-reaching ends, and shimmering gleams
Of radiant summits, where from the godly tongue
Of prophets, with divine appraise, far flung Assurance of the promised Prize, that seems.
Millenniums removed and rudely wrung,
From hands that almost touched its nearing beams.

Now is the peaceful message whelmed
In blood,
And brains that wrought for wisdom
Madly crushed,
By red War's brutal need, which stamps dismay
Athwart the world, and conjures the grim brood
Despite in gloom begets, whilst Hope
With bated breath awaits Love's coming day.

FOUNDING CONGRESS ON DEFENCE

A letter received by senators and members of Congress in Washington indicates that the National Security League intends to make an aggressive fight for national defence legislation at the approaching session of Congress. The letter requests that the senators and members become members of the National Security League the work of which it is asserted is "strictly nonpartisan." After appealing to the members for their support the letter says: "If unable to give your personal support we respectfully ask you for a reply expressing your position as regards our programme." In the meantime the work of organizing branches of the American National Security League is being pushed vigorously throughout the country. A New England branch has been established with headquarters at Boston and such prominent men as the present governor of Massachusetts the mayor of Boston and former Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer have become identified with it. As soon as the organization in New England is perfected the work will be pushed westward and southward to cover the entire country.

TAFT HONORED AT WEST POINT

William Howard Taft arrived at West Point for a stay over night. He was escorted to the "Palms" by a troop of cavalry and greeted there with a salute of 21 guns from a battery. He reviewed the corps of cadets. Last night Mr. Taft was the guest at a dinner and reception in the officers' mess. This morning he lectured to the corps of cadets on "The Spirit of the Constitution."

SAYS EDE WROTE F-4 WAS LEAKY

Los Angeles Cal., April 9.—Abis D. Ede brother of Lieut. Alfred L. Ede's brother stated wrote that the vessel was leaky and otherwise in poor condition.

SUICIDE AND NOT MURDER

Man Found Dying in Barn Had Revolver in His Clothes.

Charles Courley, aged 30, of 7 Upton Block, Manchester was found Friday afternoon in the barn of William Bremner at Jeff's Falls with his head badly battered up. He was taken to the Sacred Heart hospital where he died shortly before midnight. It was at first supposed that he had been the victim of a murderous assault, but the finding of a revolver in his clothes later, and a washing up showed that a bullet had been sent into his head. The theory was dispelled and according to the police is a case of suicide.

Irving Latuch, aged 17, and Alphonse Pilon, aged 19, who found him, notified the police and the man was taken to a hospital. Courley had been missing since Tuesday.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated By Portsmouth People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one kidney medicine that has earned a reputation for lasting results and there is plenty proof of its merit right here in Portsmouth.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now makes his testimony even stronger.

Mrs. Arthur M. Morrison, 99 Gale St., Portsmouth, says: "I had pains in my back and sides. My kidneys were weak and often I had nervous and dizzy spells. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and used some. It wasn't long before they completely cured me. The cure has been permanent. You may continue publishing the endorsement I gave Doan's Kidney Pills before."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Morrison had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WOMAN'S DUTY AND RIGHT

Woman's primal duty is in the home; but woman should have the right to express her opinion and wield an actual influence at the polls on every question of legislation and on every issue of elections in order that she may protect that home.

She can do more than merely vote; she can initiate issues of importance with the added initiative of having a voice in obtaining their institution.

The Senate of North Carolina has passed by a large majority a bill authorizing women to become Notaries Public. Massachusetts women were permitted to become justices of the peace are still considered incompetent to serve as notaries public.

Women lawyers are still refused admittance to the bar in Georgia, Arkansas and Virginia denied the privilege by men lawyers and men law makers.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

William Mitchell, Kittery, Pulled Unconscious From Water.

William Mitchell of the Picot road, North Kittery had a narrow escape from drowning early Friday evening. Mr. Mitchell had just been out in his dory and was making the boat fast to its mooring near Mill Bridge over the Post road. As he went to secure the rope he stepped backward, and in doing so either tripped or slipped, falling overboard. As he felt he struck his head and became unconscious. He went down once but when he came up caught hold of the side of the boat and held on.

Shortly afterward Joseph and Harry Picot returning home from Portsmouth on a motorcycle found Mr. Mitchell still clinging to the boat, although unconscious. They soon secured another boat and went out into midstream to his aid. They pulled him from the water and removed him to the house of his brother Henry. Dr. Henry J. Durgin of Elliot was called and medical aid rendered. The condition of Mr. Mitchell today was reported as being very comfortable.

been recorded so far for the July examination.

WILL GRANT CERTIFICATES

No Cause for Alarm Among the Firemen.

Ever since the election of officers of the several companies of the fire department there has been a great amount of whispering and anxiety in the ranks of the firemen owing to the fact that the board of engineers have not as yet granted the necessary certificates to the captains of the companies which the men elected on last Monday night.

All kinds of stories were floating on the wings of gossip, but it appears that there was no call for the alarm. The board of engineers simply held up the matter with the hope that it might be arranged to have men in the position of captain who are not employed at the navy yard, but at all times located on this side of the river. This matter, the board will try and have the men consider in the future elections. (This year however it will be allowed and the certificates granted in a short time.)

MAKING BIG INCREASE

Less Cost and Superior Work at Portsmouth Navy Yard.

As a government manufacturing plant the Portsmouth navy yard is fast coming to the front and the ability of its officers and workmanship of the employees is steadily being recognized by the navy department.

In 1905 the yard did $24,000 in manufacturing. In 1914 it turned out $53,000 in work. The record last month was $79,000, the biggest in the history of the yard. The present month promises to exceed March. This increase is made against sharp competition by other yards and shows that the Portsmouth yard can not only produce the work at less cost, but that everything is superior to the work of other naval stations on the coast.

The following is the list of bidders for the work in the street division of the public works and for a supply of crushed stone: For granite work, Sacco & Wood, $1.15 per square yard; F. Lizio & Co., $1.03 sq. yd.; E. W. Trefethen, $1.68 sq. yd.; James E. Chickering, $1.85 sq. yd. The bids submitted for the crushed stone are from O. Prior & Co., Portsmouth, Waltham Trap Rock Co., Waltham, Mass.; Essex Rock and Construction Company, Salem, Mass.; Massachusetts Broken Stone Company, Salem, Mass.; Winchester Rock Company, Winchester, Mass. These firms offered a variety of figures and for several grades of stone which will require some figuring on the part of the board of public works in order to come to any conclusion.
